

SPECIAL EDUCATION, GROWTH, UNDERSTANDING and LEARNING ASSOCIATION

Dear Friend of SEGULA,

Have you ever wondered what it's like to be the parent of a special needs child? A number of parents in Cleveland's Jewish community don't have to wonder, they know from personal experience. Every day they thank G-d that an organization exists that cares. SEGULA, meaning "treasure," began seven years ago as a mere dream. Today, SEGULA provides the critical support services that allow our special children to benefit from a Jewish day school education.

With SEGULA's help:

- Every child has a personal Instructional Aide providing daily curriculum modification and social guidance.
- The Instructional Aide receives ongoing supervision from Educational Coordinators, who are special education professionals.
- The Educational Coordinators design the educational plan for each child and also work with the classroom teacher to ensure the child's success in meeting the challenges of a day school's dual curriculum.
- Year-round in-service training is available for everyone who works with our students.
- Parent support groups meet to help guide parents as they face the unique challenges of raising a special needs child.

Because of SEGULA, parents of special needs children are free to choose the Jewish day school experience they so desire for their child. However, in order to continue, we need your help. What greater obligation or privilege exists than for a community to provide an education for all its children? Please help us continue to meet that obligation. Your generous donation has never been needed much as it is today.

Sincerely,

Zahava Neuman
SEGULA
